

This is a restaurant website. they serve just buffet for lunch and dinner with different kinds of food (indian, chinese, french, mexican and italian). It has buttons for different kinds of food, that gives information about the food when clicked on it. there are some images for different kinds of food along with food information. There is a “go to top” button after every kind of food information which allows user to go to start of page. There is a table booking button which takes the user to table booking form. There is an image on the start page which has lunch and dinner price.